Free Fun in the Sun at One CHA Fest

Chattanooga Department of Early Learning launches free family event to help connect residents with activities, entertainment and resources

Chattanooga, Tenn. (Friday, July 15) — The Department of Early Learning on Friday announced the “One CHA Fest,” a free family event featuring food, activities, entertainment, and services for the city’s residents.

The event builds on Chattanooga Mayor Tim Kelly’s One Chattanooga strategy to align every resident with the resources they need to thrive, and will offer both fun in the sun as well as connections for residents who need help accessing city services.

The One CHA Fest is free to all residents, from infants to elders, and will be located in the heart of Chattanooga at Miller Park. The event will feature inflatables, line dancing, family workouts, crafts, food trucks, valuable resources, live entertainment and more, with activities calibrated to every age and ability level.
